COURSE SYLLABUS

Course Description:

This course will examine Western Civilization from the Age of Absolutism through the Cold War. As a survey course we will focus on the social history of European society reviewing everyday life, religion, and philosophy. We will also learn about Europe's political and economic development and how it affected countries outside of the continent. This course will help students develop reading, research, and writing skills that will benefit them in upper division classes. Finally, historical knowledge should help students develop an understanding and appreciation for their culture and the world in which they live.

Required Reading: These books are available at the campus bookstore.

John P. McKay, Bennett D. Hill, John Buckler, A History of Western Society, Vol II, From Absolutism to the Present, 6th edition, (Houghton Mifflin Company: New York, 1999).

Mark A. Kishlansky, editor, Sources of the West: Readings in Western Civilization Vol II: From 1600 to the Present, 3rd edition, (Longman Press: New York, 1998).

Choose one of the following: Vera Brittain, Testament of Youth: An Autobiographical Study of the Years 1900-1925 (Penguin Books, New York, 1933, 1978). OR

Robert Graves, Good-Bye To All That: An Autobiography, (Doubleday: New York, 1929, 1998).

Grading and Assignments:

Midterm essay exam (25%) given on October 3; document analysis (15%) due at the beginning of class October 31; short paper—5-7 pages—on Brittain or Graves (20%) due at the beginning of class November 30 (the particulars of this assignment will be given at a later date); final essay exam (30%) given on December 14, 2:00-5:00; class participation (10%). All assignments as well as your final course grade will be based on the +/- system. I will not post your grades.

Study questions for the midterm exam and the final exam will be passed out at least one week prior to each exam.

Attendance Policy:

Class begins at 11:05 and ends at 12:20. Regular attendance and active participation in class should be considered an essential part of the learning process. Roll will be taken. Students are allowed three un-excused absences, every absence after that will deduct points from the class participation portion of your final course grade. I expect you to be awake and focused on the material being covered in class. Do not study for another course while you are sitting in my class. During class discussions of documents from Sources of the West I expect you to have read the documents before class.

If you miss the midterm, the due date of the document analysis or short paper, or the final exam, only absences due to medical or family emergencies (for example, attending the funeral of an immediate family member) are valid. You will need to present written evidence of your illness or family emergency for an excused absence. Students will only be allowed to make up missed work after presenting written proof of a medical or family emergency. All make-up midterm exams will be given on December 11th during my office hours. If you miss the due date on the written assignments, a late penalty of five points per day (including weekends) will be deducted from your grade for that assignment.

Routine doctor or dental appointments are not considered excused absences. Schedule them in advance and outside of class time. Occasionally participation in a college sponsored event is an excused absence. However, you must inform me prior to the absence and present written proof of college sponsorship. It is your responsibility to obtain missed lecture notes and turn in all assignments on time.

Honor Code:

We are a community of scholars and therefore academic dishonesty is not tolerated. Your signature on a paper or test submitted for credit shall indicate you have neither given nor received unauthorized information on the work, nor have you condoned the giving or receiving of unauthorized information by others. As a student at Oxford College of Emory University you have agreed to abide by the honor pledge and have taken upon yourself the responsibility of upholding the Honor Code; you are urged to inquire of the Honor Council about any doubtful case at any time throughout the semester. Please see pages 49-50 in Oxford College 2000-2001 Catalog for complete details on the Honor Code.
