

OXFORD COLLEGE
PHILOSOPHY 100: INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY

Dr. Ken Anderson
Fall 2002
Office: 106A Language Hall
X 4-8384

SYLLABUS: The objective of the course is to introduce the student to a range of philosophical methods and problems. We will try to accomplish this through the close reading and discussion of some fundamental texts in the philosophical tradition. The course will be framed by a close reading of Descartes' Meditations on First Philosophy. The other texts will be brought in with reference to the issues raised by Descartes, for instance, freedom, God, our knowledge of the outside world, the relation of the mind to the body. Barth's novel, The End of the Road, will also serve to provide a literary perspective on the philosophical issues.

TEXTS: Plato, Trial and Death of Socrates
Plato, Symposium
Descartes, Meditations on First Philosophy
Epictetus, The Handbook
Sartre, Existentialism and Human Emotions
John Barth, The Floating Opera and The End of the Road
Westphal and Levenson, Life and Death

REQUIREMENTS:

Approximately six quizzes
Three in-class exams – 9/25, 10/21, 11/13
Final exam – 12/12 2:00-5:00pm
Attendance is mandatory. More than three absences will affect your grade. See reverse for details.

GRADING: Each exam will count 20% of the final grade and the total of the quizzes will count 10% of the final grade. Class participation will also be taken into account and will count 10% of the final grade.

“Every thinker puts some portion of an apparently stable world in peril and no one can wholly predict what will emerge in its place.” -John Dewey

The honor code is in effect at all times and must be adhered to for each assignment. The code and its application to particular assignments will be discussed in class.
