THE DIVISION OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND DANCE

Students at Oxford College are required to enroll in three courses in the Division of Physical Education and Dance. The faculty of Oxford College has directed the students be acquainted with a capacity that is fundamental to all human beings. That capacity is one's physicality. Physicality pertains to the body and is linked to but differentiated from the mind and spirit. Physicality includes but is not wholly limited to:

1. The refinement of the senses.
2. The maintenance of health, physical strength and stamina.
3. The management and control of body based emotions.
4. An appreciation of kinesthetic awareness, which includes the joy of movement and exploration of human movement as a form of expression.
5. The acquisition and refinement of perceptual motor skills
6. Awareness that there is an intrinsic relationship between body, mind and spirit and those inadequacies in one of these affects the other two.

Each course offered by the Division of Physical Education and Dance emphasizes at least four of the elements of physicality with some elements being emphasized more than others. By enrolling in three different courses students will be exposed to all six elements of physicality to one degree or another.

Oxford College is and has always been committed to the liberal arts. The liberal arts curriculum for centuries has included the study of the body and its relationship to mind and spirit. From Plato's Academy to the present, institutions that espouse the study of the liberal arts make physical education and dance an integral part of the curriculum. Oxford College is no exception.
