

"What is home? The place I was born? Where I grew up? Where my parents live? Where I live and work as an adult? Where I locate my community—my people? Who are 'my people'? Is home a geographical space, an historical space, an emotional, sensory space?"
—Chandra Mohanty, "On Being South Asian in North America"

but it is the journey that matters, in the end."*

Course Purpose

The purpose of English 185 is to develop and enhance the close reading, critical thinking, writing, research, and oral communication skills necessary for successful college-level (and beyond) work. To that end, you will be asked in this course not only to read a significant amount of literature but to ask questions of the works that help you gain a deeper understanding of the texts' meanings and to make thematic connections across diverse texts. You will reflect on those meanings and connections in class discussions, in lower-stakes writing assignments (e.g., in-class writing assignments, reading responses), and in more formal writing assignments (e.g., 4-5-page essays). Finally, you will pursue a research project of your own design that relates to the course theme and share your findings with the class in an oral presentation. By the end of the term, you will be well prepared for all of your coursework...and you may even walk away from this course with a newfound love of literature and writing!

Course Theme

Leaving one's home and culture for a fresh start in a new place can be a simultaneously exhilarating and painful process. In this course, we will explore the multiple ways in which authors have imagined such migrations (and even experienced those migrations firsthand). We will discuss the range of sentiments and emotional experiences that accompany these journeys, from loss, loneliness, fear, and shame to liberation, awakening, and rejuvenation. And we will look at ideas that emerge across the texts—for example, the significance of "the quest"; the importance of family, friends, and strangers in our journeys; the multiple definitions of "home"; the impact of war on the human psyche; and much more. Reading and writing about a variety of works will lead us to consider both the joys and the anxieties that each of us has experienced upon leaving the places and the people we call "home."

Student Learning Outcomes

Critical reading

- Students will develop their ability to read texts closely and critically, focusing first on understanding before moving to evaluation.

Critical writing

- Argument: Students will develop their abilities to compose, organize and support academic arguments in order to engage in ongoing intellectual conversations.
- Revision process: Students will understand that good writing is the result of a process of planning, drafting, receiving and giving feedback and revision.

Research

- Students will develop their abilities to find evidence using library and other resources.
- Students will develop their abilities to incorporate their findings into academic arguments and to document their sources.

Oral expression

- Students will develop, through informed conversation, the ability to speak clearly and persuasively about the texts they study.

Email

I am always happy to speak with you in person about your coursework. I am also happy to field your questions over email, with the exception of questions about grades, which should be asked in person. When emailing me (or any professor or staff member, for that matter), please keep the following guidelines in mind:

1. Use an appropriate subject line for your message.
2. Always start your message with an appropriate greeting, such as “Dear Professor McGehee” or “Dr. McGehee—” (as opposed to “Hey”).
3. Use a professional and respectful tone within your message.
4. Proofread your message before sending. (A good way to do that and to check tone is to read the message aloud before clicking Send.)

Also, I do not always check email between 5 pm and 8 am, so please be aware that if you email me during the evening/night, I may not respond until the next morning.

Oxford College Writing Center

You are required to take Essay #1 and Essay #2 to the Writing Center. You may go to the Writing Center at any stage in the writing process, but I advise you not to wait until the day before the essay is due. You could go for help to get started, to organize and develop your ideas in a rough draft, or to learn to recognize and correct errors in grammar and punctuation in a revised draft.

Fall 2016 hours are Sunday-Thursday, 3-11 pm. The center is located on the second floor of the library. To make an appointment, visit: <http://oxford.emory.edu/academics/centers-institutes-programs/writing-center/>

When you go to your appointment, make sure that, in addition to your draft, you have a copy of your assignment with you, as well as the book(s) you are using in that assignment.

Ask the tutor for assistance on specific issues—s/he is not there (and is not allowed) to proofread your work but to guide you towards a clearer expression of your ideas.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Class participation	100 possible points
Quizzes	50 possible points*
Weekly reading responses (4)	40 possible points
Essays (2)	200 possible points
Research Presentation	80 possible points
Final Exam Essay	50 possible points
Total	520 possible points

*Total depends on the number of quizzes given.

**The point total is comprised of the following: a topic statement (10 points), annotated bibliography (20 points), and oral presentation with Prezi or Powerpoint (50 points).

***The possible point total may change over the course of the semester due to schedule changes.

GRADING

The grading system for this course relies on a point system, meaning that you start with a 0 in this course. The only way to go is up in other words! Each component of the course is worth a certain number of points (see Course Requirements below). Your grade will be determined by dividing the number of points you earned by the total number of possible points (not including extra credit), which totals 520 for this semester. The grading scale is as follows: A 100-92; A- 91-90; B+ 89-88; B 87-82; B- 81-80; C+ 79-78; C 77-72; C- 71-70; D+ 69-68; D 67-60, F 59 and below.

DISCUSSIONS & ATTENDANCE

- Class participation: The success of this class depends on you (and a little bit on me). You are responsible both for attending each class session and for participating in the lively and informed discussions that will no doubt result from your having thoroughly and thoughtfully completed the assignments for each day.
  - If you tend to be a less vocal participant in classroom discussions, send your thoughts or questions to me via email, talk to me after class, etc.
  - Participation also involves “active” listening, including eye contact, nodding, smiling, raising eyebrows, and taking notes.
  - In general, if you are disruptive in class (talking while I am talking, sleeping, or engaging in any other form of distracting behavior), I will ask you to leave, and you will be marked absent for that day.
  - If you miss class, you are responsible for obtaining notes from a classmate.
  - Please don’t email me with the following question: “Did I miss anything important in class today?” My answer will always be “yes.”
- Absence/Tardy Policy: You are allowed 2 absences, for any reason, without penalty.
  - There are no “excused” absences for medical reasons unless someone from the Office of Academic Services and/or the Access, Disability Services and Resources (ADSR) office contacts me directly about your particular situation. If you realize you will be missing multiple classes for a medical reason, please contact Dean Binuya in Academic Services ASAP so she can notify all of your professors.
  - For each absence beyond 2, you will lose 1 point off your final grade average. For example, you have a 90 average at the end of term, but you were absent 5 times total. Because of the 3 excessive absences, you would lose 3 points on that average, leading to an 87 for the course.

- That said, please talk to me in advance about accommodations for religious holidays/observances.
- Be on time. If you come to class more than 10 minutes late, you will be counted as absent.
- Technology: ALL CELL PHONES SHOULD BE TURNED OFF DURING CLASS!
  - Texting during class automatically negates any participation points earned during class that day.
- Grading: At midterm and again at the end of the semester, you will receive a participation grade out of 50 points. The two grades combined will equal your class participation grade for the semester. Possible points: 100 points

QUIZZES

- I will give a quiz at least once a week based on the reading/viewing assignment for the day I choose to give the quiz. The quizzes will consist of 5 factual questions related to the reading or one open-ended question to which you will respond in a paragraph or two.
- There will be ~10 quizzes throughout the semester. Total possible points will depend on number of quizzes given, but each is typically worth 5 points.

WEEKLY RESPONSES

- You will write 4 semi-formal reading responses in this course.
- There are 6 opportunities to complete a response, but you need to submit only 4 responses. Therefore, you may skip 2 responses, or if you complete all 6, I will simply drop the two lowest response grades from your point total.
- The handout at the end of this syllabus (also on Canvas) will give you a clearer sense of what I expect and will give you the response due dates.
- Each response is worth a maximum of 10 points. Total possible points: 40 points maximum (4 responses x 10 points max each).

ESSAYS

- You will write two short essays (approx. 4-5 pages each) in this class.
- I will provide a detailed handout for each paper assignment about a week in advance of the due dates (see syllabus).
- You are required to take both essays to the Writing Center.
- Late papers will not be accepted.
- You will submit a rough draft for each essay, which will be read and critiqued by one of your peers in class on the due date.
- Each essay is worth a maximum of 100 points. Total possible points: 200 points maximum.

RESEARCH PRESENTATION

- During the second half of the course, you will research a topic of your choosing related to our course theme of Leaving Home. You may choose to examine a primary text (e.g., a novel, film, body of songs, etc.), an historical topic, or a social issue.

- Regardless of your chosen focus, your task will be to relate to the class in a 10-12 minute presentation how the topic relates to ideas and concepts that surfaced during the semester.
- You will also be asked to incorporate research from at least 4 secondary sources (e.g., articles, books, etc.) to help support your claims. We will meet as a class with a librarian to learn about using library resources, and you will also be required to make an individual appointment with a reference librarian.
- The project involves four components due at various points in the second half of the semester: a topic statement (10 points); an annotated bibliography (20 points); and an oral presentation using Powerpoint or Prezi (50 points). Total possible points: 80 points maximum.

FINAL EXAM ESSAY

More details forthcoming. Total possible points: 50 points.

NOTE ON STUDENT WORK

Student work submitted as part of this course may be reviewed by Oxford College and Emory College faculty and staff for the purposes of improving instruction and enhancing Emory education.

EXTRA CREDIT

Throughout the semester, I will give you opportunities to raise your point total by attending and writing up a summary of outside events—such as lectures, films, performances, or exhibitions—that relate to the topics and themes of this course. If you have suggestions for such events, email your ideas to me, and I will post them to Canvas. Most events will be worth 3 points, and you may get up to 6 points max.

HONOR CODE

<http://oxford.emory.edu/academics/student-services/student-honor-code/>

The Honor Code applies to all assignments, in and out of the classroom. All work in this course must be entirely your own. The bottom line: don't use someone else's ideas or words without proper citation. (This includes websites like Sparks Notes!) I am always happy to discuss with you when something needs to be acknowledged and properly cited, but it is up to you to see me before your written work is due to ask your questions about documenting sources.

ACCESS, DISABILITY SERVICES and RESOURCES OFFICE (ADSR):

<http://oxford.emory.edu/life-at-oxford/disability-services/> ADSR will offer qualifying students academic accommodations such as alternative testing, notetaking, interpretation, etc. Students must register and request those services. To do so, contact ADSR at adsroxford@emory.edu or 770.784.4690.

COUNSELING AND CAREER SERVICES (CCS): <http://oxford.emory.edu/counseling/>

CCS provides many services at no cost to help address students' personal and career development needs, including personal counseling, career counseling, and psychiatric services. To schedule an appointment, call 770.784.8394.

Guidelines to Reading Responses in English 185

Reading responses are due to Canvas by class time on the dates listed below.

You will submit the responses through Canvas:

- Type your response on Microsoft Word, check the Word Count, and save as a PDF, .doc or .docx file.
- Log into Canvas at classes.emory.edu.
- Select our course: ENG_OX 185.
- Go to Assignments and click on the link to the Reading Response you wish to submit.
- You will be prompted to upload your file.
- Be sure to submit the response.
- I will then run your file through SafeAssign, our anti-plagiarism software.
- Check back within a week after posting your response to read my comments.

You will write a total of 4 responses throughout the semester. You have 6 opportunities to write reading responses, but you may skip 2 responses during the semester without penalty. The skipped responses may appear as 0s in the online gradebook, but rest assured that I will drop the 0s when calculating your final grade for the course. With each response you can earn a maximum of 10 points towards your final grade for a total of 40 possible points.

Below, you will find the list of due dates for these responses.

- Students whose last names begin with A to G typically submit responses on Mondays, with the exception of Response #2.
- Students with last names H to Z typically submit responses on Wednesdays.
- If you prefer to switch due dates one week, you must let me know by Saturday, 10pm, of the week that it is due.

You will not have a response due the same week that an essay is due!

Due Dates	Last name A-G	Last name H-Z
Response 1	M 8/29	W 8/31
Response 2	*W 9/7	W 9/7
Response 3	M 9/26	W 9/28
Response 4	M 10/3	W 10/5
Response 5	M 10/17	W 10/19
Response 6	M 10/24	W 10/26

Objectives

The responses are meant to accomplish the following:

- 1) get you writing on a regular basis,* and
- 2) ensure that you are not only completing the readings assignments but thinking about them critically before coming to class.**

*Just like with exercise, it's important to write on a regular basis. If you don't, then your writing weakens. If you do, then you not only become a stronger writer, but writing becomes easier and less daunting. Furthermore, the more writing assignments you have, the more chances you have to get an A!

**Because this is a discussion-heavy course, I want to make sure you are doing the reading in a way that will allow us to have lots to talk about when we meet each day. I also want to make sure that each of you is able to participate even if you are one of the less vocal members of the class.

How do I get 10 out of 10 on each response?

To get 10 points, your response should:

- be at least 350 words in length. Suggestion: Type your response in Word; check the word count using “Word Count” under Tools; and then cut-and-paste or attach document within Canvas.
- reflect upon the reading due in class the day your response is due. On the days that you have more than one essay or article to read, you may write about only one of the readings without penalty.
- have a main idea in your response and support that idea with analysis and ample textual evidence.
- contain minimal grammatical mistakes.
- be turned in on time. Late responses will not be accepted.

These responses should be very thoughtful and reflective. They should show that you understand the main points or premises of the reading. But they are also meant to provide you with a more relaxed space in which to play with your ideas and to make connections to your personal experiences. You can use humor and colloquial language, but your response should be intelligent and articulate...and of course, grammatically correct. What you choose to write about is essentially up to you, but I have provided some prompts for you below. You can respond to one of these, or you can choose to write about a single idea, metaphor, phrase, or fact that piqued your intellectual curiosity.

The response should relate in some way to the reading that is due in class the following day, not about something you just pulled out of the air.

Some prompts (but feel free to come up with your own!):

- The most interesting or powerful or surprising or [insert adjective] moment in the reading was: (include reasons)
- One moment [identify that moment] reminded me of something we read previously... (discuss the parallels you see)
- This reading troubled me because: (include reasons but avoid ranting)
- This reading raised a central question for me: (include the question and your thoughts about it)
- This reading brings to light the theme(s) of: (include theme(s) and a discussion of the ways in which the theme appears)
- This reading showcases the author’s ability to: (identify author’s strengths or weaknesses and discuss)
