Course Description

An interdisciplinary and multicultural approach to the study of gender and an introduction to the fundamental concepts and tools of analyses in the academic field of women's studies. The focus will be on the social practices, cultural representations and institutions that establish masculinity and femininity as normative. In this survey course we will critically examine themes that are essential to understanding the importance of gender, as we seek to understand the relationship of race, class, ethnicity and sexuality to gender on diverse women's lives in the US. An historical presentation of feminist movements, both nationally and globally, will be presented to understand the impact of feminist activism on our lives. Key outcomes of this course are to develop essential skills of reading and thinking critically, self-expression through writing and discussion, and self-reflection. In addition, by providing service to local community agencies in Newton County through the TPSL, students will use their work experience as a laboratory to understand the principles of hierarchy and to evaluate the consequences of social stratification on people's lives.

For the TPSL requirement, students will work for 8 weeks in their assigned location for a total of 16 hours, 2 hours per week. Your work must be completed by the end date of the TPSL, and no make-ups will be allowed after that date. The date to begin is the week of Feb 10 and the last day to finish hours is April 25.

Required Readings- Readings numbers 1 and 2 are on library reserve and those numbered 3 through 22 are on eReserves or in Documents on Blackboard. If the url is identified you can find the reading on the internet.

Course Goals: Each of us in this class is expected

-To participate actively in class discussions and in Blackboard conversations on a regular basis and in a thoughtful manner. Please interact with your colleagues by responding to their entries, in addition to posting your own.

---To connect the theory we study in the readings, films, and discussions to our daily lives and the lives of those we interact with in our TPSL work-site

-To understand the ways in which girls and women have been discriminated against, marginalized, and often treated as invisible in virtually every culture for which we have empirical research

-To evaluate specific ways in which class, ethnicity, sexual orientation and age intersect with gender in defining your own lives

-To appreciate the gains made by the feminist movement and acknowledge the work that still remains

-To learn the tools of feminist analyses and critical thinking

Requirements of the course and percentage contribution toward your grade: TO RECEIVE FULL CREDIT FOR ASSIGNMENTS WITH MULTIPLE PAGES ALL PAPERS MUST BE PRINTED ON BOTH SIDES

1. Attendance (5), Class participation (5) and Blackboard Discussion Entries (10)

Total = 20%

(1) Attendance- 5 points

Attendance is essential for this class. Since your individual voice is considered significant to all of our learning, you should attend every class and actively participate in class discussion. Those of you who are never absent will receive the full 5 points toward your final grade. If you are absent once you will receive 4 points; if you are absent 2 times you will receive 3 points; and if you are absent 3 times you will receive 2 points. If you are absent 4 or more times you will lose the full 5 points toward your final grade.

(2) Blackboard Discussion entries - 10 points. Each student will make at least 10 entries during the course of the semester. Each entry should be a response or personal reaction to a concept presented in class, or in the discussions/readings, in a film, by another student, in the world at large, and should be approximately 3-4 sentences in length. You should respond to your colleagues' entries. It is hoped that these entries will serve as a type of conversation among students in the class. Please respond thoughtfully and respectfully to one another and demonstrate careful reflection and analysis. I am interested in whether you are able to incorporate ideas from the class, articulate them in your postings and RESPOND to your colleagues in the class. You are building your intellectual self, so think before you enter a posting. A regular consistent series of entries is expected, not all posted at the end of the semester and not all posted on one day. I will not count more than one posting per day. In addition, you will be penalized for starting your entries later in the semester since each month is worth 25% of your Discussion

Posting grade (10 points). Thus, you will earn 2.5 points for Jan, Feb, Mar and April, if you post each month. The last day to post is the last day of class at 11 am.

(3) Class participation- 5 points. You will be evaluated by the level of participation in which you are engaged during class discussions. In addition, each student will serve with a partner as discussion leaders for at least one class and, in that role, be responsible for leading the discussion of the readings with the class. It will be incumbent on the facilitators to develop a list of discussion questions that they will use to lead the discussion. A list of discussion leaders for each class will be identified in the first classes, but every student will have the opportunity before the semester ends, possibly, more than once. You will work in pairs as facilitators of the discussion.

Your responsibilities when leading the class discussion :

As individuals or in pairs, your goal is to get the class to COMPREHEND the author's ideas. Thus, your goal is to focus on comprehension, not opinion or agreement or disagreement. You will accomplish this by developing questions that will promote class discussion.

To develop the questions for class discussion:

1. Identify the topics and concepts that you believe are essential
2. Develop questions intended to elicit responses from the class; the goal of these questions is to facilitate understanding (comprehension) of the concepts and ideas in the readings as presented by the author(s)
3. Do not ask opinion questions – whether your colleagues agree or disagree
4. Do not ask whether they liked it or not
5. Your goal is getting the class to UNDERSTAND the authors' meaning. You may compare and contrast ideas in your readings with other readings. Comparison and contrasting is a kind of analysis that contributes to critical thinking skills.

2.TPSL Participation, Presentation -

5 minute presentation in class (20%)

On Open Forum date on course schedule you will make your presentation.

You are required to attend the location to which you are assigned and complete 18 hours during 9 weeks of the semester within the dates specified only. You cannot make up any hours after the last week. You will lose points from these 10 points if you do not complete the full 18 hours in the specified time frame.

This project is an intellectual and reflective experience that requires you to integrate the class readings to your work experiences at your TPSL work site. On the OPEN FORUM date listed on the class schedule you will present your reflections based on the work experiences in your TPSL. The presentation is a chance for you to present the integration of class readings with your work experience. You must integrate at least 3 class readings into your presentation that relate to your particular work site. Please use correct citations and use formal writing language. The readings selected should help you to pose questions that will enable you to understand your work environment.

WHAT WILL YOUR EYES BE LOOKING FOR? Think about what you will be looking for in your work site and how you can use the readings to understand the experiences you will have at work. And how does the work site help you understand what the readings have presented? This is an integrative intellectual experience in which you will use 3 class readings to build a framework for analysis (relating readings to work experiences). Early on in the semester you should share with me what questions your work site prompts and which required readings are appropriate for your reflective essay.

For the 5 minute class presentation describe your work environment—people you work with, age, sex, race, ethnicity and your responsibilities at the site. Identify the funding of this site and the scope of their work. How are people selected to get into this site? Which readings did you select and why? How did the real life situations you encountered help you to understand and analyze the readings? How did the readings you selected help you to understand your work site?

3 Midterm and final exam—30 %

See course schedule for date

4. Research paper – 30% -- You will work in partners

Final research paper and presentation to class DUE MAR 18 (30%)

Paper- 5 – 8 pages and Presentation- 10 minutes – Prezi or powerpoint

Thesis statement and title due 2/18

Revision of thesis statement, outline and 10 sources due 2/25

Final project to be presented to the class. In addition to completing a research paper. Each student will work with a partner on a topic that I approve. You will write one paper. You will have 10 minutes to present a feminist analysis and evaluation of a topic (using power point) or prezi) showing the class that you have learned the tools of analysis used in the field of women's studies. All final projects must be approved by me and will be evaluated as follows: 10 points for deep and extensive feminist analysis of your topic; 5 points for thoroughness; 10 points for a clear understanding of the topic; and 5 points for the quality of your presentation.

For the paper—First you will talk to me about your thoughts. What are you interested in? You should look ahead in the syllabus to see if a future topic interests you. Then after I give you the go-ahead-submit to me for approval a title and thesis statement. You will identify a position you are going to support through your research. Then, you must submit the approved thesis statement and title, WITH an outline of your intended final project, including 10 sources from books and articles. You must limit internet sources. Do not use internet sources unless they are also printed. Go to the reference librarian and ask how to find books and articles on your topic. Use style guidelines of MLA or APA for appropriate citations.

The Student Honor Code of Oxford College applies to every member of the class. Please review this code carefully giving special attention to plagiarism. Remember that plagiarism occurs when one uses the words or ideas of another person without quotations and without adequate referencing. Please note also that the use of former students' papers may not be used in any form; to do so is to violate the Honor Code. Should you have any questions about what constitutes plagiarism, please consult with me. Downloading is not original thinking. The purpose of your undergraduate education is to improve your mind and your ability to articulate your ideas. Not only is plagiarism a question of ethics but it is depriving you of learning to analyze and think critically, thus improving your writing and discussion skills.
