

Introduction to Politics
Political Science 101.03J
Spring, 2014
Syllabus

Read all the information in this document carefully, so you are not surprised by requirements you may find onerous.

January 21, 2014 – Last day for changing courses.
March 7, 2014 – Last day for dropping courses without academic penalty.

This course is patterned after the INQ approach (Ways of Inquiry).
Students will be introduced to and expected to know the fundamental concepts and theories that are essential to the study of politics but the learning of these concepts and theories will be conducted using an inquiry driven model. (KV)

The Honor Code is in force and will be followed completely in this course.

THIS SYLLABUS IS PART OF THE MATERIAL THAT IS REQUIRED FOR THIS COURSE. YOU MAY BE TESTED OR QUIZZED ON ANY OR ALL PARTS OF IT.

This course is designed to introduce you to the meaning of politics and political things. We start our project from the standpoint of common sense, but our aim is to go beyond it without ever violating it. Therefore we start with questions that fortunately were considered and reflected upon by some of the greatest minds the world has ever known. Our study of politics begins with the questions, arguments, and answers of some of the great political thinkers in world history, and with considering the views of some important political leaders in history. And because these thinkers disagreed with each other, we do not have to worry about being exposed to only one point of view.

The readings follow a general chronological order from ancients to moderns. You should note that the assignments are relatively short. Because of this and because of the nature of the class, I must assume that you have studied all of the readings carefully by the first day they are due, respectively. Most importantly, you should always keep pace with the syllabus, no matter what we may be doing in class on any given day. This is the most important requirement of the course, and lack of preparation will affect your grade. You are also responsible for knowing what is going on in the world; you can learn this by reading all the international articles in The New York Times regularly. Subscription information is available through the Bookstore. You may sometimes wonder why knowledge of international affairs is necessary to know and why you are quizzed on it. We will probably not discuss these issues at any great length, unless some world crisis comes up. The reason is two-fold. First, while “current events” and “politics” are not the same thing, it is often impossible to offer political examples without referring to “current events.” Second, most college students (do not take this personally, and it may not apply to you personally) do not know anything about international affairs, international geography, or cultures other than their own. In order to understand politics, one must possess such information. An introductory course in politics cannot work without introducing students to these collateral issues. On the other hand, we simply do not have time for partisan debates over emotional issues. Indeed, we cannot devote time to how you “feel” about what we will study, but we will consider what you “think.” Thought is characterized by offering evidence and using logical argument, not by emoting. Sometimes the distinction can be difficult to maintain, for instance, when discussing genocide, which is inherently and properly an “emotional” issue.

*“short”
does not mean “easy.”*

Finally, there may be handouts from time to time for which you will be responsible. When distributed they will, directly or indirectly, bearing on the course, and you may be quizzed and or tested on the material contained therein. I will also show a film on February 8th at 6:30pm in the Seney Conference Room entitled Regarding Henry. If you attend this screening and stay for the discussion that follows you will be entitled to one extra point on your final average.

There will be three tests, including a final examination. The first hourly exam will count for 10% of your grade; the second, an in-class essay exam, will count for 25% of your grade; the final exam, to be given during finals week, will count for 25% of your grade. The remaining 40% of your grade will be evaluated from mostly unannounced (although you should note that one will usually be administered on your first day back from a recess) quizzes. At least thirteen will be given over the course of the semester, of which ten will count toward your grade. If you are absent for more than three you will receive a zero for those you miss for reasons other than illness or family emergency. It will be up to you to furnish proof in this regard. If you are absent for more than three, no matter what the reason, you should seriously consider taking an “incomplete” in the course. Quizzes cannot be “made up,” so be careful not to miss quizzes for trivial reasons. In order to do well on the quizzes you will have to be prepared for each class. In order to do well in the course you will have to do well on the quizzes. This course rewards effort and preparation, and penalizes lack of preparation and “cramming.” You should take note of these facts as you determine what you wish your future in this class to be.

One of them will be mostly on the material in the syllabus.

The Oxford College Honor Code is always in force. If you are unfamiliar with it, read it. Failure to be aware of its content is not accepted as an excuse for its violation. I simply will not tolerate academic dishonesty in any form. If you cheat, plagiarize, or take someone else’s work as your own, I will take it to Honor Council and pursue the case. This is not negotiable, and there are no excuses for academic dishonesty. You should be aware that use of spark notes, summaries online or any other secondary sources that explain the primary reading is considered an honor offense in this course. Plus/minus grading will not be in effect in this course.

My office is Seney 303. My office phone is 4-8334. My e-mail address is bshapir@emory.edu and this is the preferred method of communication. Office hours are by appointment and it is easiest to secure an appointment by e-mailing me to request one.

SCHEDULE OF CLASSES

Classes begin at 3:30pm and conclude at 5:10pm

I. The Beginnings of Political Philosophy: The Tension Between Human Being and Citizen.

January 14:	Introduction
Jan. 16, 21:	“Antigone”
Jan. 23, 28:	“Apology” and “Crito”

Political Science 101 (Introduction to Politics)
Syllabus
Page 4.

Jan. 30:	The Politics , Book I, chaps. 1-7
Feb. 4, 6:	The Politics , Book III
Feb. 11, 13:	from “Genesis” and “Exodus” from “The Gospel According to St. Matthew” From The Koran “Nathan the Wise”
Feb. 18, 20, 25:	The Second Treatise of Government
Feb. 25 (8:30AM):	Exam

II. Modern Politics: Liberal Democracy, Communism, and Fascism

Feb. 27; March 4, 6:	“The Communist Manifesto,” Handout.
March 18:	Lenin: On reserve
March 20:	Darkness at Noon
March 25, 27:	Mussolini and Hitler: On reserve
April 1, 3, 8:	“An Enemy of the People”
April 10. 15:	No class
April 17 (8:30am):	Essay Exam

III. The Goals and Limits of Politics: Must they be in tension?

April 17:	Speeches by King and Churchill: On reserve
April 22, 24:	“The Tempest” and Conclusion

May 2 (7:00PM):

Final Exam

There will be no classes between March 10 and 14 because it is mid-semester break.
There will be no class on April 10 as I will be at a professional event out of town.
There will be no class on April 15 as I will be observing a Jewish holiday.

I take attendance every day because it is my legal obligation to know who is in my class, and it is my community obligation to be able to inform other professors and appropriate people if you are cutting class. However, I do not penalize your grade for a specific number of cuts. On the other hand, if you have read this syllabus carefully, you do understand that it is impossible to do well in this course without attending and being prepared.

From time to time it is possible I will have to cancel class because of circumstances beyond my control. These classes will be made up, usually at 7:30am Monday through Thursday, because that is when there are no conflicts. If you consider this an undue hardship, you should think twice about taking this course with me as the instructor.

A FURTHER NOTE ON QUIZZES AND TESTS

All quizzes offer you six questions and you are asked to answer five. Sometimes there are “bonus” questions, so that sometimes it is possible to earn more than 100 points on quizzes. These bonus questions come from the reading that is due for that particular day, according to the syllabus and from questions about geography. You will have to know your geography to do well in this course. Anyone who achieves a 90% average or better on the quizzes will earn five extra points on his/her final average. As state, there may be “extra” bonus questions about world geography on all quizzes and tests.

The first exam will consist of six short answer questions, of which you will be asked to answer five. In addition, there will be an essay. There will be an essay exam written in class administered, as the syllabus specifies. The final exam is a short answer exam.

THE HONOR CODE, AGAIN

Your TA's (they are similar to SI's, but have more responsibilities) and I are available for all your questions about the Honor Code. There will be no negotiation or discussion about violating the Honor Code. That is why Honor Council exists.

A FINAL NOTE ON GRADES

Plus/minus grading will not be utilized in this course. My grading system is:

85-100=A
75-84=B
65-74=C
55-64=D
54 and under = F

If you have objections to a grade on your exams or quizzes you must raise these with me within two days of the assignment in question. I will not consider objections after that time period has elapsed.